Ideas For Your Bridal Shower

- If your brides' a bit of a green thumb a garden party might be just the thing. Encourage guests to purchase gifts for the garden. For thank-you gifts you could give a small packet of seeds to be planted in the couple's honour.
- Lingerie party's are great fun. What an excellent way to get lovely new lingerie for your wedding night and honeymoon. There are many companies in Perth that offer these types of parties. They sell all sorts of merchandise from sexy lingerie to battery operated toys. Be considerate of any older guests who may not be interested in this type of party.
- A linen party is a great way to keep up with your ever thinning linen requirements. Choose a colour scheme and/or schemes to make it easy on your guests. What a great way to get many years worth of towels and sheets!
- Tupperware is a must have item for the kitchen, and if your bride is just starting out, this can be an excellent way to get her kitchen and pantry off to a flying start. Tupperware offer their hosts discounts and bonus gifts when your party sales reach a certain amount. Your Tupperware Representative can suggest many themes for your party.
- For the wine enthusiasts have a cellar party. Get each guest to bring a bottle from their favourite winery. A great way to stock up your wine collection.

Our Tip

When organising a bridal shower consider your brides interests and hobbies. Record any gifts given to help when it comes time to write thank-you's. Most importantly of all try to keep the bride from having any organising to do, as the day/night should be in her honour.
